Trek Route Options

Bir – Billing – Rajgundha

The most popular route begins in Bir, known for paragliding. From here, you drive to Billing (2,400 m), the paragliding launch site. The trek from Billing to Rajgundha is about 14 km and takes 5–6 hours, passing through oak, rhododendron, and pine forests.

Barot – Rajgundha

An alternative route begins from Barot Valley, offering a less crowded and more rugged trail. This path takes you through remote hamlets and dense forests.

Trail Highlights

- Channa Ghat: The highest point on the trek, offering panoramic views of both the Kangra and Rajgundha valleys.
- Villages: Pass through charming hamlets like Kukkar Gundha and Rajgundha, where time seems to slow down.
- Landscape: Enjoy sweeping views of the Dhauladhar range, terraced fields, glacial streams, and alpine meadows.
- Stargazing & Camping: The valley is perfect for night camping under a clear sky full of stars, accompanied by a warm bonfire and local Himachali food.

Weather & Seasons

- Summer (Apr–Jun): Clear skies, pleasant temperatures (~10°C–25°C)
- Autumn (Oct–Nov): Crisp air, best visibility, ideal trekking conditions
- Winter (Dec–Feb): Snow-covered trails, temperatures can drop to -5°C
- Monsoon (Jul–Sept): Not recommended due to slippery paths and landslides
