Tour Basics •

Duration: 2 Days 1 Night

Route: Bhagsu - Maggie View - Triund - Snowline - Maggie View - Bhagsu

About This Trip •

The Snowline Trek is a beautiful and moderately challenging hike that begins in McLeod Ganj, near Dharamshala, in Himachal Pradesh. It takes you beyond the popular Triund campsite and leads up to the Snowline. This ridge sits just below the Dhauladhar mountain range, offering breathtaking views and, for most of the year, the opportunity to walk near snow patches without requiring technical mountaineering gear.

Where Does the Trek Go?

- Start Point: McLeod Ganj (~1,750 meters)
- Midpoint: Triund (~2,850 meters)
- Endpoint: Snowline (~3,200 to 3,300 meters)

You first trek to Triund, a popular meadow ridge with panoramic views. From there, another short but steeper ascent takes you to Snowline, which feels much more secluded and peaceful compared to Triund.

Duration & Distance

- 2 days (typical), sometimes 3 days if you want a slower pace.

- Total distance: About 12–13 km one way.

McLeod Ganj to Triund: ~9 km

Triund to Snowline: ~3–4 km

What You'll See

- Forests full of pine, oak, and rhododendron trees.
- Wide green meadows with dramatic views of the Dhauladhar range.
- Glimpses of snow, especially from late winter to early summer.
- Clear skies (in the right season) make it ideal for stargazing.

Difficulty Level

- Moderate. Not too tough, but it does require basic fitness.
- Elevation gain can be tiring, especially from Triund to Snowline.
- First-time trekkers can do it with a little preparation.

Camping Experience

- Most trekkers camp overnight at Triund or at Snowline itself.
- There are small cafes and local stalls (like the famous Snowline Café) that offer basic meals and tea.
- No electricity or mobile network at the top, so it's a digital detox experience!

What to Carry for Snow Line Trek

- Warm clothes: It gets cold, especially at night.
- Hiking shoes or boots (ideally waterproof).

- Water bottles and energy snacks.
- Headlamp, sunscreen, sunglasses, and a small first-aid kit.
- A good backpack and ideally a rain cover (weather can change fast).

Best Time to Visit Snow Line Trek

- Spring to early summer (March–June) and autumn (September–November) are the best times.
- Monsoons (July–August) bring slippery trails and landslide risk.
- Winter (Dec–Feb) is snowy and beautiful, but more challenging.

Do You Need a Guide for Snow Line Trek?

- You can do it solo if you're confident and fit.
- Guides are available to assist with camping gear, meals, and navigating snow patches.
- A small entry or forest fee may apply (paid on the trail or through a guide).

Why Snowline is Worth Visiting

- Less crowded than Triund but even more scenic.
- Perfect for beginner trekkers who want a taste of snow and real Himalayan views.
